

A FAMILY AFFAIR

The fabulous Sani Resort in the shade of Mount Olympus has been owned by the same family for three generations. Perhaps that's why it is Greece's top family resort

IT CAN BE a hard choice to make when planning a holiday – whether to choose the intimacy of a family-owned property or opt for the facilities of an internationally renowned resort. With Sani Resort in Greece you are treated to the best of both worlds. A luxury resort born 40 years ago from the vision of two men and that, three generations later, continues to be nurtured by their heirs. The resort retains a traditional Greek charm yet has subtly evolved to reflect contemporary tastes.

In view of Mount Olympus and spread out over an exclusive 1,000-acre ecological reserve, Sani is a truly unique Mediterranean experience. Boasting one of the most important bird sanctuaries in Greece, its wetlands and gently rolling pine-forested hills give way to mile upon mile of immaculate golden beaches.

There's much that makes Sani special: the breathtaking scenery; the authentic charm; the understated luxury; the fabulous service; the outstanding choice; and the passion of its owners, to name a few.

Four five-star hotels – each with its own unique ambience – promise an inspiring mix of accommodation from the ultra-exclusive to relaxed contemporary elegance.

Whichever you choose you'll find a level of spaciousness and comfort to ensure you'll always sleep soundly. Sani Resort is all about relaxation. So treating yourself at one of its three spas – each with a unique concept and an enticing range of luxury treatments from the likes of Anne Semonin and Apivita – goes without saying. Or you may simply wish to take it easy while your children, enjoy the expansive pools and fun activities supervised by professionally qualified staff.

The breadth of activities Sani offers all the family is a big part of its attraction. The blue flag-awarded beaches promise crystal clear safe water; the verdant pine forests provide a perfect setting for a hike or bike; sports include tennis and five-a-side soccer while water-sport aficionados will find everything from wakeboarding to scuba diving at the two water sport centres.

The annual music extravaganza, the Sani Festival, and the Sani Gourmet food festival have done much to add to Sani's already considerable international reputation, drawing in crowds from all over the world. And as you'd expect from a resort that hosts this much-anticipated food festival, there's a mouth-watering selection of cuisine at the 15 restaurants – some centred around the vibrant marina and others in more intimate hotel and beach-side settings. With an enticingly diverse culinary range that includes modern Greek, Asian fusion, Italian and Japanese – every appetite is catered to.

Sani Resort has an enduring appeal; for those who want to be entertained or for those who simply want to delight in a little beach-side opulence. And with a staff numbering over a thousand, the accent is always on relaxed and efficient with delightful attention to detail. With all your needs met, it's hard to wish for more. Except, perhaps, one more night. ■
